THE HOME LIFE,

IN THE LIGHT OF ITS DIVINE IDEA.

By James Baldwin Brown, B. A.

I spent some days in Australia at a gold mine in the north of England, where a troop of bright girls are being trained to be noble womanhood. It was while watching their beauty and innocence that I first conceived the idea of the value of the culture in the houses in which they may one day rule, that I formed the plan of instruction for my own country during the winter months, the result of which the book contains.—Extracted from Preface.

Editor of the above sent free to my address, on receipt of price.
